Please God, please bring healing

Rabbi Milton Steinberg

After a long illness, I was permitted for the first time to step out of doors. And, as I crossed the threshold, sunlight greeted me. This is my experience – all there is to it. And yet, so long as I live, I shall never forget that moment... The sky overhead was very blue, very clear, and very, very high... A faint wind blew from off the western plains, cool and yet somehow tinged with warmth – like a dry, chilled wine. And everywhere in the firmament above me, in the great vault between earth and sky, on the pavements, the buildings – the golden glow of sunlight. It touched me, too, with friendship, with warmth, with blessing...

In that instant I looked about me to see whether anyone else showed on his face the joy... I felt. But no, there they walked – men and women and children, in the glory of a golden flood, and so far as I could detect, there was none to give it heed. And then I remembered how often, I, too, had been indifferent to sunlight, how often, preoccupied with petty and sometimes mean concerns, I had disregarded it. And I said to myself – how precious is the sunlight but alas, how careless of it are we... I was reminded to spend life wisely.

Blessing on seeing something of extraordinary beauty

Blessed are You, our Living God, Sovereign of the universe, who has such as this in Your world.
